THE PRESENT CONDITION.

HELP!

While serious reductions have been made in the expenditures for our mission work, its support has been still more seriously reduced. During the last nine months our necessary payments have outreached this reduced support by over $30,000. The total debt upon the treasury of the A. M. A. has now grown to $98,000.

The immediate question is that of sustaining the current expenses of the work. These summer months are not the most hopeful for increased contributions, but we are glad to say that the last month shows a slight advance of help from this source. This paragraph will be read by thousands of our friends to whom this great mission work is dear, and who would be sorry to have it cut down further. If each one of these Christian friends will just now send us what he can, this, with the general responses coming from the churches, will relieve the immediate stress of need.

Shall we not have at once this generous response in multiplied individual gifts and increasing contributions from the churches, so that our coming annual meeting at Detroit may be one of rejoicing and not of mourning?

POOR FLORIDA.

There was a "cold snap" in Florida last winter, and the ice entered some people's hearts. When the Legislature assembled a fever had succeeded the chill. Under the mixed influence of the reactions the representatives of the people of Florida framed an enactment to which we call attention in the comments of the Outlook, the Congregationalist and the Independent.

The ice has now melted in that peninsula, but the people of Florida are not happy. A dark cloud of shame hovers over them, and the air is mephitic. Some, in reading their Bibles conscience-troubled, are wondering if the verses of the second Psalm were written for Florida. "The Kings of the Earth set themselves and the rulers take counsel together against the Lord and against his Anointed, saying, Let us break their band asunder and cast away their cords from us. He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh, the Lord shall have them in derision."

(From the Outlook.)

Is the State of Florida in the Union? Do the members of its Legislature live in the nineteenth century or in the Dark Ages? What could be more disgraceful than the following act which has passed both Houses of the Legislature and been signed by the Governor?

AN ACT TO PROHIBIT WHITE AND COLORED YOUTH FROM BEING TAUGHT IN THE SAME SCHOOLS.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Florida:

Section I. It shall be a penal offense for any individual body of inhabitants, corporation, or association to conduct within this State any school of any grade, public, private, or parochial, wherein white persons and negroes shall be instructed or boarded within the same building, or taught in the same class or at the same time by the same teacher.

Section II. Any person or persons violating the provisions of Sec. I. of this Act by patronizing or teaching in such school shall, on conviction thereof, be fined in a sum not less than $150 nor more than $500, or imprisoned in the county jail for not less than three months nor more than six months, for every such offense.

Section III. All laws or parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this Act are hereby repealed.

Section IV. This Act shall take effect September 1, 1895.

Approved May 29, 1895.

Think of teachers of a Christian school being made liable to six months' imprisonment in the county jail if they receive white pupils! Think of persons being fined from one hundred and fifty to five hundred dollars if they patronize or teach in any school where both white and negro children are instructed! We have heard much of the horrors of lynching in the South, but the worst of those horrors was not more disgraceful than the action of the Florida Legislature. There is a certain measure of truth in the saying the negro should be left to work out his own salvation, but the whole Nation ought to rise in indignation against such abominable legislation as the Act which we have quoted. We presume, certainly we hope, that without delay the United States Courts will pass upon this action. At the North, in our public schools and in the largest and best of our colleges, whites and negroes are instructed without offense to either. Our Christian civilization means nothing, and the freedom of our Republic means nothing, if this law of the State of Florida should be pronounced constitutional.

(From the Congregationalist.)

It is not particularly conducive to national pride to read that the Legislature of Florida at its last session made it a penal offense for any individual, corporation or association "to conduct within that State any school of any grade, public, private or parochial, wherein white persons and negroes shall be instructed or boarded within the same building or taught in the same class or at the same time by the same teacher." The penalty for violation of this barbaric law is a fine of not less than $150 nor more than $500, or imprisonment in the county jail for not more than six nor less than three months. It is to be hoped that the A. M. A. and the other philanthropic societies directly assailed by this law will combine in a policy which shall speedily test the constitutionality of this legislation.

(From the New York Independent.)

This law was proposed by the Superintendent of Education for Florida. The history of it is this: It was called to his attention that there is a good private school supported by Northern benevolence at Orange Park for the education of those who will avail themselves of its advantages. It admitted and invited negroes; but it being the best school in the neighborhood a number of Northern people who desired their children to be well educated sent them to it. It thus became, and has been for several years, a mixed school. The purpose of Superintendent Sheats was to destroy such a school as that at Orange Park, supported by a Northern missionary society, by preventing thoroughly trained Northern teachers from being employed who should be competent, from their acquaintance with the best normal methods, to instruct the colored youth and thus raise up those colored men and women who should in time be fit to compete with white teachers.

We are not informed what the American Missionary Association will do, but we can guess with some assurance. It is not an Association which has been in the habit of dodging unpleasant duties; it has not run away from the field of conflict. It believes that God equally loves white and black and red and yellow; and that the caste prejudice which attempts to keep down one race in its struggle for emancipation and elevation is wicked and hateful.

The South—Anniversary Exercises.

FISK UNIVERSITY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

BY REV. GEO. W. MOORE.

The thirtieth commencement exercises of Fisk University began May 24 with the anniversaries of the three literary societies and closed June 12 with the graduation of the class from college. The third anniversary of the theological department was held Sunday, June 3, when two young men were graduated and were ordained, the same evening, to the gospel ministry. Rev. J. E. Moorland addressed the class on The Ministry required by the times.

June 7 nineteen young men and three young women entered college, fourteen made addresses. The department of music held its graduating exercises June 8, when four young people were awarded diplomas. One hundred and eight persons have studied in this department the past year. Pianoforte, voice culture and organ have been taught. The university that gave the world the Jubilee Singers is foremost in providing a musical training for this music-loving people. The commencement music by the Mozart Society, under the direction of Prof. Wright, was a feature of the occasion and showed the value of voice culture. The missionary sermon, by Rev. Geo. W. Moore, and the Baccalaureate sermon, by President E. M. Cravath, D.D., were preached Sunday, June 9.

President Cravath's return from abroad with restored health and strength is a source of gratification to the friends of the University. He has just completed thirty years of labor in the South besides his service in the army. No man has done better service in our behalf and is more beloved.

Examinations in the college and English departments and exhibits of the industrial departments were held June 7-11. Classes were examined in Greek, Latin, French, surveying, political economy, book-keeping, moral philosophy, English literature, history, etc. Classes have also been taught printing, carpentry, cooking, sewing and nursing, etc. The model practice school, under Mrs. Green, also closed a successful year of work.

The fifteenth anniversary of the College Alumni and the eleventh of the Normal were held June 10. The Normal Alumni address was given by Miss D. R. Thompson, class "'92," on "The New Woman," and Alfred O. Coffin, Ph.D., class "'85," spoke in behalf of the College Alumni on "Placed and Misplaced People." Dr. Coffin's tributes to our Northern friends for their aid and our self-sacrificing missionaries for their service were as fitting as they were expressive of the gratitude felt by the graduates and students of all of our A. M. A. schools. Seven young women and one young man were graduated from the normal department and received their diplomas June 11, and certificates were given to eight young people completing the second year normal course.

The great day of these anniversary exercises was the commencement of the college department on June 12, when eight young men and four young women were graduated. The Fisk Memorial Chapel was crowded. Friends were present from the city and surrounding country, parents from a number of the States had come up for the first time to see the great school, and the members of the Colored Teachers' State Association were present in a body.

There were twenty-two exercises held during commencement, all of which were of a high order. We give the titles of the addresses of the college class of "'95," that our friends may see the practical subjects of the addresses: Economic Botany, Enthusiasm for Humanity, The Engineer, Reform in the United States, Luxury, An Economic Force, Individuality, Is Ignorance Bliss? Our Antagonist Is Our Helper, The Origin and Evolution of Civilization, Our Conflict, The Negro in Literature.

Thirty years of service in this Southern field! What a record for Fisk University for the education of the negro. Besides the large number of faithful teachers who have served from time to time, there are several professors who have given twenty-five years of continuous service to the cause. Prof. Bennett, who left us a year ago on account of illness, served twenty-seven years; Prof. Morgan has served twenty-six years, Prof. Spence has just completed twenty-five years, and Prof. Chase twenty-three years of service. Through the service of the Jubilee Singers and the munificence of Mrs. Valeria Stone, Gen. Fisk and others the University has five large buildings, Jubilee Hall, Livingstone Hall, the gymnasium and workshop, Theological Hall and Fisk Memorial Chapel. It needs other buildings, but these are not its greatest need. The pressing need of this largest and most representative school in the South for negro education is money to carry forward the work so well begun. It has not only sent out three hundred graduates from the college and normal department, but it has also enrolled over twelve thousand students, who have studied for a greater or less time, and are scattered all over this and other lands in the work of uplifting humanity. Four hundred and sixty-five pupils, representing twenty-six States, were enrolled the past year. Fisk University is as indispensable to the South as are our Eastern colleges to New England.

Will not some friend or friends of the negro education endow Fisk University, and thus make it possible for it to do a still larger work in the South for this large and needy population?

COMMENCEMENT AT TALLADEGA, ALA.

BY PROF. WM. E. HUTCHISON.

The twenty-eighth anniversary of Talladega College began Thursday, June 6, with the Senior Preparatory Exhibition, and ended with the graduating exercises of the College and the Theological Department, on Tuesday, June 11.

A regular but always interesting feature of commencement week is found in the public examinations of the different classes and departments. This year these examinations were excellent, showing patient and thorough work. Among those especially good should be mentioned an examination in arithmetic, in which a pupil explained fully and clearly, by means of a diagram he had drawn, the method of finding the square root of a number. A Latin class, started only eight months before, was reading selections from Eutropius, and the instructor was questioning the members—and getting answers, too—on Roman history and mythology, as well as on the more usual lines of etymology and syntax. It is good for a class thus to have its thought led out occasionally into realms broader than the parts of verbs and the subjunctive mood. The botany class, too, showed an extraordinary amount of good work done in the short hot term of two months, not only by the oral examination, but by the many specimens of plants neatly pressed and mounted.

In a school like Talladega one can see what good is being done nowhere better than in the primary grades. The kindergarten is the foundation. This year the work of the first grade—partly kindergarten work—was exhibited in the chapel. Besides the sprightly, taking songs and exercises of the little ones—all these songs and exercises having an educational bearing—there were ever so many beautiful specimens of paper-folding, weaving and other arts, done by the pupils themselves. In the second grade a skillful exercise on plants was in progress under the direction of a teacher, herself a product of Talladega, a graduate of the normal department.

Occasionally one heard an amusing error, generally in the use of words. In one room the pupils were trying to while away the time until the hour for their public examination should come. They were singing "America," and instead of uniting on "Thy woods and templed hills" some of them lustily sang "Thy woods and temperance hills"—a mistake which perhaps would have gladdened the hearts of our earnest friends of the W. C. T. U.

The examination in theology is the most popular examination of all, not only with the visiting clergymen, but, strange to say, with everybody, young and old. Whether one knows anything about mediate or immediate imputation or not, whether or not he can tell a textual sermon from one on the power of contrary choice, he comes to the examination, generally stays through, and seems to listen intently. Perhaps even though the visitor may not understand the abstruse subject under consideration, he has a vague sense that the students are masters of the subject; and that vague feeling fascinates him. The examination this year was on Messianic Prophecy. The ground covered was wide and important; but the students handled the questions given them thoroughly and clearly, as one always expects Dr. Andrews' students to do.

Some of the speaking of the students at the different exhibitions was much above the average. One excellent speech was by J. A. Webber, of the Sophomore class, upon "The Negro His Own Worst Enemy," really a message from the heart of the orator to his race. The graduating address of J. R. Savage, of the College Department, was a noble plea for the study of Mental Philosophy. It is safe to say that nothing better has ever been presented by a student at Talladega.

Mr. Savage belongs to the first regular college class to be graduated here. The college idea used to be in the background at Talladega, but it is now being more and more strongly emphasized, and it is hoped that this class is the first fruits of an abundant harvest soon to follow.

Five young men were graduated from the Theological Department, two receiving the degree of Bachelor of Divinity. Of these five four were ordained on Sunday night by a council called for that purpose. Dr. Beard preached the ordination sermon.

As to the industrial exhibit it ought to be said at once that Talladega is not a trade school. It puts intellect and intellectual culture above muscle and muscular skill. But for all that it does not disparage industrial training. On the contrary, this kind of training is held to be a very important means toward a well-rounded education. To develop observation, care, attention, accuracy and patience is considered of greater importance than the production of a large number of articles for show. The industrial work lies along many lines, among others carpentry, sewing, agriculture and cooking; and it took a good part of Saturday morning to see all the work which was upon exhibition. In the carpenter shop specimens of every grade of skill were to be seen illustrating every step in a well-ordered progressive course of instruction. In the printing office work was going on, and in the press was a notice of a baby-show at the Methodist church. The work of the agricultural department could be judged by the thrifty rows of vegetables in the garden, the well-kept barn and stable, and the fine stock, especially swine and cattle. In one place only was there dissatisfaction, and the writer may be allowed to suggest that it is devoutly to be wished that specimens of the work of the cooking class could be shown not under a glass case and not marked "Hands off."

Despite hard times, the number of students this year has been larger than ever before. But the hard times kept away many visitors from the closing exercises. A very small number of the alumni sat down to the annual dinner. As if to make up for the absence of many whom we usually see, we had Dr. Beard with us, whose visits to Talladega are all too infrequent.

TILLOTSON INSTITUTE, AUSTIN, TEXAS.

BY PRESIDENT W. S. GOSS.

The exercises of Tillotson's fifteenth commencement began with oral and written examinations on Thursday and Friday, May 30 and 31. On Friday an informal social, reception and picnic, at home in the afternoon, was thoroughly enjoyed by a fairly large company.

Sunday was the great day of the feast. The superintendent gave a short, general exercise on the Sunday-school lesson, and Rev. Alexander C. Garner, pastor of the Congregational church at Paris, Tex., preached the baccalaureate sermon. It was a powerful presentation of truth from the words "Christ, in you the hope of glory." A joint Christian Endeavor meeting of the two societies was held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, led by a student recently converted.

Words fail to portray the scenes that occurred before the close. As students and friends shook hands with each other, the thought of immediate separation seemed to open the way for the Holy Spirit, and it came down mightily upon all in the room. Mr. Garner invited those who wished to meet him in a small room for further prayer and conversation. Nearly everyone responded, and for another hour Christian students and teachers prayed and labored with the unconverted, and six gave themselves to Christ.

The closing service of the day was to be a farewell Consecration meeting, and Mr. Garner was prevailed upon to lead. The work again began where it was left and was somewhat farther carried on.

One incident is worthy of recital. At the afternoon meeting a young lady gave herself to Christ, while her brother stood out on the steps to laugh and make fun of those within. On the way to supper the president agreed with her to pray and work for her brother to win him before he went home. A few moments later he was told about the agreement and urged to prepare to surrender. When the invitation was given in the evening this young man was one of the first to come forward and give his hand in token of surrender. He then sat down and wept like a child, but afterward went through the audience to shake hands with everybody. When he came to his sister she clasped him in her arms, kissed him and clung to his neck, while both gave vent to their joy. The scene brought tears to most of the few eyes dry until then.

At the close another adjourned meeting was held. Four young men held out in spite of prayers and exhortations until nearly ten o'clock, but they all yielded. One of them was so nearly overcome that he needed support from a mate, who had yielded but an hour or two before. They had been close friends and far from the kingdom, but after the first had fully settled his own case he came and knelt by his comrade and did much to induce him to submit. At the close of this meeting it was found that but one student remained in the boarding department who had not professed Christ.

Such a time has never before occurred at Tillotson within the memory of "the oldest inhabitant." It was a new thing to have twelve souls make a spiritual commencement on the closing Sunday of the year. Two more had declared their intention a few days before; these made the whole number of conversions for the year seventeen.

On Monday night a last or "dress rehearsal" for the Cantata was given, and the students were all invited free. On Tuesday night was the annual concert. This year "The Cantata of Esther, the Beautiful Queen," was given. About fifty students took part, all wearing appropriate costumes of the Jewish and Persian style. Standing room in the chapel was at a premium, and people even stood out in the hall and on the stairs. A small admission fee was charged. It was pronounced a great success.

The commencement exercises on Wednesday morning were much after the conventional order, excepting that after prayer by W. J. Bassett, presiding elder of the M. E. Church, and the excellent productions of the two graduates, a series of ten-minute speeches was made upon topics selected by the president, and assigned two weeks in advance. They were as follows: "The Problem of the Idle Young Man," by Rev. Andrew Foster; "Should We Encourage Our Educated Young Men to Enter Politics," by Rev. H. L. Trapp, who was strongly opposed to having the State or National capital placed before young men as a goal—they should rather be stimulated to become first-class tradesmen and mechanics, and strive for excellence in the useful professions.

"The Influence of the Opera, Theaters and Sunday Excursions," by Rev. A. C. Garner, who declared these three things potent evils because they so often successfully tempt the church member and make him a stumbling stone to the unconverted.

"The Study of the English Bible Necessary to a Rounded Education," by Rev. Edward B. Wright, pastor of the North Presbyterian Church, Austin, who showed the necessity of such study by a scholarly array of cogent reasons.

"The Duty of the Colored Teacher to His Race," by Prof. Blackshire, principal of the Austin Colored Schools. He showed that while the duty of all teachers is in general the same, it is especially necessary for the true colored teacher to be a pattern of morality, uprightness and integrity, as the number of leaders for the race that would stand the test on these lines are too few.

Rev. Wm. B. Rankin, superintendent of the Austin branch of the American Bible Society, was present and gave some interesting reminiscences of Tillotson, the most interesting of which was that when the school was opened, and for awhile afterward, all such speeches as were delivered on this occasion were by white men, because there were so very few colored men at that time able to do it. He noted these able discussions by colored men as a mark of real progress.

A most excellent essay on "Nurse Training" and nursing as a profession was read by a pupil in that department, Miss N. E. Butler.

"Industrial Training as a Factor in Education" was discussed by Mr. M. J. Taylor, one of the older boys and a good workman. The prize for the best oration or essay, sustained by Mr. J. S. Bingham, was divided, as the judges could not agree upon one to the exclusion of the others.

After these exercises all were invited to inspect the industrial departments. In the sewing room the specimens offered a good variety, including patching, darning, crocheting and other stitches ornamental and useful. More than thirty dresses have been made besides other things for immediate use by the students, who furnished their own material and were taught how to make it up. It was probably the best exhibit ever made in this line at Tillotson.

The exhibit of carpentry and cabinet work comprised one large side-board, worth $35, two hall settles, one secretary with eight drawers and two cupboards, one revolving bookcase (sold), one bookcase for curtain in front with carved cornices, one medicine case (sold), two bureaus, ten tables for students' rooms, two library tables, five ornamental parlor cabinets, fourteen towel racks, five neat toilet cupboards with shelves, fifteen hanging shelves (two sold), one corner cupboard (sold), two shelves for bric-a-brac, forty-four window screens, one shaving case, two parlor screens, eight screen doors, two bandage winders for nursing department, two protractors for geometry class, one tight box for packing music. The use of a vacant store on a principal business street in Austin has been donated by Lewis Hancock, where we shall place much of this work on exhibition to the public and for sale.

THEOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT, HOWARD UNIVERSITY.

PROF. J. L. EWELL.

The year has been a very pleasant and I trust profitable one. Owing to the adoption of a higher standard of scholarship the number of unclassified students has been less, but the number of classified students has increased. We have at length one candidate for the degree of B. D. on our roll, according to our strict standard—a standard which the Theological Seminary connected with my Alma Mater has only risen to in her announcement this year for future graduation.

The Christian work done by our students in the city has been very encouraging. The ground has been broken by one of them for new work in one of the worst and most needy portions of the city.

Not a single member of our graduating class received a cent of aid from the University during the year—save that, according to our custom, they received their diplomas free of charge. One, for instance, has supported himself as janitor, one as barber, one as painter. Not many theological seminaries, I suspect, can parallel that. Four denominations are represented in their Christian brotherhood. As a class they have been peculiarly faithful, teachable and grateful.

Owing to deficiencies in his early education Mr. Jackson received neither diploma nor certificate, but a personal letter from the Dean testified the high regard we all have for his character, and expectation of his great usefulness in the black belt from which he comes.

The whole six are worthy representatives of their race, to whom we believe that with God's blessing they will be of great service. Their thought and prayer stretches beyond America to the mysterious continent whence their ancestors came.

Mr. Justice Brewer gave a very felicitous address at the anniversary, which different ones affirmed to be the best in the history of the department. I am told that Rev. Dr. Hamlin, of the Church of the Covenant, expressed the opinion that no superior exercises would close the year in any theological seminary in the land.

Two nights later one of our graduates of last year, a young Japanese, was ordained in the First Congregational Church to labor among his countrymen in Hawaii.

I hope that the generous Christian friends who have supported our work through the American Missionary Association will feel that their prayers and sympathy and contributions have not been misdirected.

One thing marred our pleasure in the closing days, and that was the announcement that all the appropriation for the city pastors who have labored with us so efficiently was cut off. We have no word of complaint ; we realize the stern necessity that is upon the Association, and are very grateful for their past generosity ; but we feel sure that if the good Christian public could see the service that those dear brethren have rendered they would feel it a privilege to see to it that our work should not be crippled.

BURRELL SCHOOL, SELMA, ALABAMA.

BY PROF. A. T. BURNELL.

The closing exercises of Burrell School were a fitting "round-up" of a prosperous year. The first of these was the Baccalaureate sermon by Rev. T. J. Bell, the new pastor of the Congregational Church, welcomed here from his fourth school year at Hartford only a few weeks before.

Public examinations were held in all the grades four mornings, beginning Monday, May 20. Not the least interesting feature was the exhibit of the shop work, the boys being themselves on exhibition with aprons and caps, tools in hand and finished work nearby. This was alike true in both carpentry and blacksmithing, the latter having been started the past year. Similarly, the young ladies held a reception in display of their handiwork, especially the advanced class, a number of whom wore pretty dresses of their own cutting and sewing from start to finish. These industries attracted even more attention at the church on the occasions of the exhibitions as, while the audience was gathering, friends came to the front to examine the "get-up" of these young ladies in their new gowns as well as to look over the various articles made in the sewing department. At the opposite end of the platform some young men in full equipment displayed the easels, screens, book-case, table, etc., together with the pokers, hasp and staples, tongs, etc., made in the shops. Upon the walls of the church hung specimens of drawings neatly framed and thirteen in number, life-sized portraits mostly, notably of Garfield and Douglass. Secretary Gutterson so admired this of Douglass that he has purchased it, still incomplete, for his Boston office. These pictures won universal admiration, while the smaller free-hand drawings in books and the perspective drawings at the school building showed that good work in this line had been done by a large number.

The exhibitions at the church were three in number this year—one from the primary department, one intermediate and grammar, and then a drama, "Between Two Fires," by the higher grade students. A session of the Continental Congress (in costume) pleased everybody, and from first to last the large audiences each night seemed satisfied. The roll for the year has been 276, or 39 more than last; while the attendance for the last week in May during the past five years has been: '91, 119; '92, 105; '93, 119; '94, 124; '95, 175. For these years the higher grades VIII., IX. and X. have had in May, 7, 11, 5, 10, and this year 17. Friends of the school affirm that "Old Burrell" has a large promise for 1895-6. Second-hand texts and school apparatus would be gratefully received.

BALLARD NORMAL SCHOOL, MACON, GA.

BY MRS. ALICE T. ORR.

The closing week began May 26, with the annual sermon before the graduating class. The little church looked very fresh in its new carpet, a gift from the ladies of the First Congregational Church of Evanston, Ill., and the decorations of white clover and ivy, with here and there a bouquet, which tasteful hands had arranged. The usual good choir was assisted by a large chorus from the school, carefully trained by the music teacher; so the important feature of good music for the occasion was not wanting. The pastor, Rev. J. R. McLean, taking for his text the fifteenth verse of the fifth chapter of Acts, spoke to an overflowing house upon "Unconscious Influence." He told the class that if they wished to cast a shadow by their presence that would be helpful to others, as did Peter, they must have the direct rays of the Sun of Righteousness shining full upon them. The sermon was helpful and inspiring.

Monday was the day set aside for written examinations, the test of the year's work; while on Monday night a concert was given by the musical department, which was highly appreciated. Tuesday the work was examined in all its departments by the parents and friends. Each grade, from the wee little "Kindergartners" to the senior class in botany, had something interesting of its own to bring forward which showed progress. The fourth grade passed a very interesting examination in Bible, reciting the fifth and a part of the sixth chapters of Matthew very distinctly, while the fifth grade were able to name and spell all the books of the Bible correctly.

The feature of the day which attracted most attention was the exhibits of industrial work. There were specimens from every grade in the sewing department, and many kinds of work were exhibited—patching, matching, piecing, buttonholes—besides a great variety of neatly-made garments. The pupils take pride in this work, and we hope the time will soon come when more of the colored women will make for themselves and their children plain, neat clothing. In the same room with the sewing was a table spread with dainty eatables, prepared by the girls of the cooking class, and presided over by one of their number. The food was eagerly sampled, and seemed to be much enjoyed.

On the other side of the street the classes in wood-work were able to show, besides their numerous kinds of joints, small doors hung in their frames, window frames, sash, step-ladders, little boxes with pretty covers of inlaid wood, and many other useful and ornamental articles. A story and a half cottage, one-eighth full size, the work of the Normal class, attracted much attention. The cottage when completed will be a very pretty little house. A stairway, the work of a small boy in the sixth grade, is especially worthy of mention. A pleasing literary entertainment was given by the Alumni on Tuesday night.

Wednesday morning a large audience from among the best colored people in Macon was assembled in the Congregational church to witness the exercise of the graduating class. Although the house was crowded, and many were unable to get seats, the order and attention were excellent. Essays were read by five young women and an oration was given by one young man. All acquitted themselves creditably, and go out from the school with desires to help on the work of elevating their people. The annual address, given by Rev. H. H. Proctor, of Atlanta, was enjoyed by all. Mr. Proctor emphasized the fact that the world does not need more men, but more manhood; then he told some of the characteristics of true manhood. He urged the people of his race not to become sour and discouraged, but to keep hopeful and press on. He said: "Do not be afraid of being called an upstart; an upstart is one who has started up, and the upstarts of one generation will be the aristocrats of the next." Mr. Proctor spoke gratefully of the gifts received from Northern friends, and feelingly of the "Martyrs of the washtubs and cooking stoves" who were making sacrifices that their children might enjoy advantages which they themselves had been denied.

After the presentation of diplomas, with a few appropriate words from the principal, warning the class not to feel that their education was completed but just begun, the class sung their parting song, the benediction was pronounced, and the Alumni with the invited guests of the institution repaired to the teachers' home, where a bountiful lunch was served. The after-dinner speeches from the Alumni told of work being done, and an influence going out from the Ballard School, through its graduates, which it would be impossible to estimate.

NORMAL AND MANUAL TRAINING SCHOOL, ORANGE PARK, FLORIDA.

BY PROF. B. D. ROWLEE.

This school, located on the bank of the St. John's River, fourteen miles south of Jacksonville, has just closed a very successful year—the fourth year in the history of the school. The attendance has been one hundred and six, a little increase over last year. The health of the students has been excellent, proving that the sanitary conditions are all that can be desired. The work done the past year under a new principal has not abated any from the good record of previous years. The school commenced October 3 and closed May 28, with no break except a short vacation at holidays. At that time a Christmas tree and a treat was provided by the faculty for such pupils as could not go home. A social was also given in the girls' boarding hall, and many called it the pleasantest Christmas they had ever experienced.

On May 18 the annual picnic was held in the grove adjoining the grounds. Rain interfered some, but they adjourned to the chapel, and later to the dining-room, where lunch was served. On the 21st the Longfellow Literary Society gave its public entertainment in the chapel, followed on the 24th by the Hildreth Literary Society. The house was well filled each night and the program rendered interesting and showed careful preparation.

Sunday, the 26th, Rev. T. S. Perry preached the educational sermon. Monday evening the musical department gave its public entertainment. The interest centered around Tuesday, the 28th, the day for oral reviews, inspection of work, and the school's first graduating exercises. Visitors began to arrive the night before, and large numbers came on the early morning train to swell the number from the town and surrounding country. The oral reviews were from 9.30 to 11.30 A.M. Through the exercises the students showed the result of the careful training they had received during the year, and elicited praise from all the visitors. At 11.30 the visitors were invited to inspect the work of the various departments. The outlines of literary work, etc., relief, colored, and pencil maps, showed good work. The industrial work of the boys was very fine, and consisted of wall cabinets, packets and shelves, letter files, knife work and drawings. Some of the grades had cut their initials and had them mounted, producing a pleasing effect. The girls' display was also extensive, and showed careful training. Among the articles in plain sewing were aprons, skirts, night-shirts, waists, quilts and pillow cases. In fancy sewing were tray cloths, center pieces, doilies, done in outline, drawn work and embroidery, handkerchiefs, etc. All made a good display. The industrial work showed that this department is an important and successful feature of the school. At noon cold lunch was served in the dining-room, to which all did justice.

At 2 P.M. the bell gave warning that the last act on the scene was about to open. The chapel was crowded. The graduates, six in number, led by the principal, marched in and took their seats. The exercises consisted of music, prayer and the orations of the graduates, followed by the conferring of the diplomas. The speakers drew forth applause from the audience. The pieces were well written and showed careful preparation. They were all excellent, but "The Woman of the Nineteenth Century," "The Advancement of the Negro Race" and "Abraham Lincoln" seemed to interest the audience most. At the close one lady remarked she did not know the colored boys could do so well.

The year just closed has been fraught with much self-sacrifice on the part of many of the pupils. The loss of the orange crop and trees took away their dependence. They have shown an anxious desire to learn, have been willing to do any work they could to help them continue in school through the year. By the kindness of some who are interested in the work we have received some money, which has enabled us to keep several with us who otherwise would have had to leave school. The outlook for the coming year is not without its discouragements. There are many who wish to come, and requests are already coming in to know if they cannot work out all or part of their expenses. The loss of the orange trees will be felt harder next year than this. To school and board the pupils requires money. If God will open the hearts and purses of the kind friends, that they may feel the need of helping those who need help, light will shine and the darkness disappear.

ALBANY NORMAL SCHOOL, GEORGIA.

BY PROF. T. S. INBORDEN.

The second, sixth and seventh of June were dates most significant in the educational work in Albany, Georgia. The occasion was the second anniversary of the Albany Normal School.

The annual sermon was preached in one of the most popular Baptist churches of the city, and by its pastor. It was pointed and well adapted to stir up a spirit of frugality, independence, and an enthusiastic interest in education. June 6 one of the largest halls of the town was filled until standing room could not be found. The exhibition of the intermediate and primary grades was a complete success. The door receipts showed that we had not only a large number present, but that we had a very appreciative audience. They were willing to pay for value received.

The work of the year reached its climax on Friday night at the A. M. E. Church. The program consisted of essays, read by those who completed the grammar course, interspersed with music and a short address at the close on "The Elements of Strength in the Negro Race," by Rev. J. R. McLean, of Macon, Ga. To say that the work has been successful in Albany means more perhaps than it would to say the same of some other town. The town has no public school facilities, buildings, etc., for colored people except those provided by each teacher. The public school term is from two to five months in the year. Albany is in a fruit and cotton raising section. About 90 per cent. of the people of the county are colored. There are only a few white people of the town who believe that the negro has any capabilities equal to theirs. The spirit of moral and mental inferiority has been so impressed upon the negro that many of them nearly believe that they are incapable of high attainments. It is the work of the Albany Normal School to show to both races in the community what the negro can do and make of himself.

The system of rentage is such that it requires the shrewdest financier to handle money and to rise above the common necessities of life. That many of them have their little stores, neat homes, a small plantation, and some have a small bank account, and a great many are able to keep their children in our school all the year, shows that they are not lazy, helpless and shiftless. No, all they want is an opportunity. The Albany Normal School is their opportunity; with a few increased facilities it will meet their greatest needs.

Mountain Schools.

WILLIAMSBURG ACADEMY, KY.

The school year at the Academy which has just closed has been in every way a very successful and encouraging one. The attendance has been good. With the exception of a slight scarlet fever scare in the winter there has been no interference with the school work worth mentioning from ill health among the teachers or pupils. The deportment has been such as to render the government of the school easier than usual. A general disposition to hard study has contributed to this, and the results of the year are very satisfactory.

The commencement exercises extended over an entire week. The first public exercises took place on Friday afternoon, the 24th of May. A picnic had been planned for in the Academy campus, which had to be given up on account of bad weather, and the literary exercises in connection with it were held in the Congregational Church. They consisted of declamations and singing by the pupils of the intermediate department. These displayed a good degree of art culture, and many who attended the exercises regarded them as much superior to anything ever given in Williamsburg before.

On the following Monday evening the literary societies gave an open session to the public, which did great credit to those engaged. On Tuesday evening the public were again invited to the church to witness a display of the primary department, which consisted of an operetta of Little Red Ridinghood. As might be expected, the crowd of spectators was so great as to interfere greatly with the effect, and many were unable to gain admittance into the building. Wednesday evening the musical department made its display in a carefully prepared concert, which did great credit to the instruction given in that department. Everybody went home feeling that a new era had dawned upon the community, in which we should be no longer wholly dependent upon foreign talent for our concerts.

Friday evening was devoted to commencement proper, when our five graduates presented their literary productions and received their diplomas. In material and in numbers an encouraging advance in the Academy was manifested. They have done good work in their course and give great promise for the future. Some of them will continue their student life elsewhere at some college or university.

In quality of thought these productions were all of a high order. In composition they were excellent and in delivery good.

The influence of the Academy is felt for many miles around. Perhaps no institution of its size has done so much in so short a time for any people. This fact is beginning to be recognized in spite of denominational prejudice, which would destroy the work which has been the redemption of this region. But prejudice is rapidly being disarmed by patient, faithful, unobtrusive hard work. The influence of the institution is felt as much in adjoining counties as in this immediate vicinity. With a little work the attendance could be doubled if the funds of the A. M. A. should warrant it.

SKYLAND INSTITUTE, BLOWING ROCK, N. C.

BY MISS F. ANNETTE JACKSON.

Do you remember the wedding I described last year? The young couple who met the "preacher" on the road, refused to go into a house, and were married by the roadside. He did not even remove his hat and was vigorously cracking his knuckles the meanwhile.

All this year we have planned a very different kind of a wedding ceremony. One of our home girls, who has been with us two years, was married, and "Skyland" gave the wedding. Some of the friends who may read this have paid her expenses in school during this year, others helped furnish the bride's trousseau, which was very simple but pretty.

Mother Nature assisted in a lavish manner, giving of her beautiful pines, ferns and flowers in profusion.

Our school-house was altogether too small for the expected crowds, and we accepted the kind offer to use the cool, spacious dining-room of one of the summer hotels.

Our exercises opened with an anthem of praise and repetition of the one hundred and twenty-first Psalm, so appropriate among our wonderful hills. Then followed the program of songs, duets and recitations all about flowers and birds. Our pretty bride-to-be was crowned as June, the Queen of the year, by her subjects, the flowers, and wore her lovely white rose crown throughout the exercises.

The hearts of fathers, mothers and teachers were delighted with the result of the year's work, as shown in the well-given numbers. Many former pupils were back and we are sure that the influence of the beautiful, impressive wedding, which closed the afternoon, will go with our young people and make the solemn marriage ceremony have a new and truer meaning.

Our school work closed with the usual prayer meeting, when we each told of work we wanted to do for Christ this summer. Several of our juniors will hold little meetings at home, others will work in Sunday-school, home and field, but strive to do all for the love of Christ.

The year has been by far the best one in home and school work, and we hope the Christian Endeavor spirit will go with each pupil through the coming days.

The Mothers' Meetings have been well attended and the mothers are anxious to have them continued another year.

We want to extend our hearty thanks to the many friends who have sent to these young people the much needed help.

It may seem a small thing to you to preserve and send laid-aside clothing to missionary fields, but to us it means very much. Many all through this region are only too glad to bring provisions to exchange for warm clothing of any kind. So by such help board is provided for some "free girls," they are clad while in school, and the poor people greatly helped. The Student Aid has been most acceptable and we have longed to have it doubled and tripled. Our hearts have often been strengthened, our hands held up by the loving sympathy and prayers of the friends of the American Missionary Association.

WHITTIER, N. C.

BY MR. ALBERT GARDNER.

My first visit to the mountains of North Carolina was in 1889. Among a people whose ways and customs strike a visitor as almost unique, one of the first questions asked is concerning their schools and school facilities. I found that, except in one or two localities, throughout an area embracing several thousand square miles, within which, in spite of comparatively sparse settlement, were the homes of thousands of children, the school term was limited to some eight or ten weeks in the year and that schools were maintained by an appropriation from the State tax. In but one or two villages did I find any fund raised by local tax or otherwise for school support. I found the schools irregularly attended, conducted with little of order and less of system. I saw children wearing their hats in the school room during school hours and children sitting upon the window sills, presumably studying, with their feet hanging outside and drumming a "devil's tattoo" upon the walls of the building. Gradation in studies was impossible. There was little or no correspondence in text books. The scholars were generally ragged, dirty and unkempt.

Since my observations in that year some improvement has been made in some of the towns along the railroad, and in a few instances a marked gain is to be seen back among the hills. But many of the same features which then impressed me so unfavorably still mark the greater number of North Carolina mountain "field-schools" to-day. With few exceptions the teachers are wholly incompetent. The shortness of the term, the small salary, and frequent difficulty in collecting even the pitiful sum, present few attractions to a competent instructor.

Nowhere in the region can there be found a school to compare with the school of the American Missionary Association, at Whittier, Swain County, nor an improvement to compare with the advances made in that school during its short life of but the past two years. I attended the closing exercises of the school last year, and this year again enjoyed the cordial hospitality of the Rev. Robert Humphrey and his wife, in whose efficient hands the Association has placed the control of its Whittier school. The results secured by Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey during the school year which ended in June, 1894, more than surprised me. The results of the year just closed, while the contrast was less marked, showed no less of gain and improvement. I reviewed examination papers which would have been no discredit to schools in older communities where school-life is made an important feature. I listened to a very clever debate by members of a local Literary Society. I attended a public exhibition of the school at which a program was given by the pupils consisting of recitations, dialogues, tableaux and music. The school room was a crowded mass of humanity. Even the aisles and vestibule were packed with those unable to find sitting room, and there were scores outside who could not, because of the crowd, obtain even entrance. The program was long, but was listened to throughout with a stillness that evidenced a deep interest in the exercises. A disturbance occasioned by a few drunken rowdies met with a prompt and summary suppression that indicated a strong regard for law and order.

The performances of the pupils were highly commendable, showing much natural aptitude on the part of the scholars and much careful and earnest work on the part of the instructors. The music was a specially noticeable feature, the songs being admirably rendered. It seems most unfortunate that the funds of the Association do not permit the extension of their work in this wide and unoccupied field. There is ample room and unlimited need for a dozen such schools in Western North Carolina alone. It is difficult to realize the need without coming in contact with it. God intended that region of marvelously beautiful scenery and vast resources for one of His garden-spots on earth. It can only be made such by the educational and spiritual uplifting of those who have made their homes in it. Much of the responsibility for that work rests upon the financial supporters of the American Missionary Association. I feel no small gratification that I should be able to submit so cordial an indorsement of the work and the workers in Whittier

BIG CREEK GAP, TENN.

BY MISS K. C. LA GRANGE.

Three years ago a funny tumbled-down "church house" stood where our comfortable school building now stands. A few mountain boys and girls with "blue back" spelling books came to us for instruction. I remember distinctly how we tried to hold our "ex-hi-bition" (as the mountain people say) at the close of school, and how before it ended the officers handcuffed a rough fellow, while the mothers, with terror-stricken faces, gathered their children about them.

May 30 and 31, 1895, only three years later—what a marked change! We find young men and women speaking as contestants for a silver medal and the little ones giving to interested parents the comedy "Mother Goose's Courting." Over six hundred were gathered in and around the school building. All was quiet and orderly.

On Friday, May 31, the young men with gayly decorated horses marshaled our Eastern Tennessee Congressman of the Sixth Congressional District to our school building, where he delivered the literary address. As I listened to the words of welcome given by one of our boys and saw the old flag waving I felt, after all, there was no North, no South. Truly we were all one, and love for our country was "a-kin" to love to God.

At 8 p. m. the young people of the advanced grades gave "Ten Nights in a Bar-Room." All were interested, and we trust that it may have been a lesson to some wayward one and that it may save some of our boys from the "bar-room" and its horrors.

Truly the work of our Association grows and its results are blessed indeed.

CLOSING EXERCISES AT SALUDA.

BY E. W. HOLLIES.

A remarkably successful year of school work was brought to a close by two entertainments last week, the junior members of the school giving one on Thursday, the seniors giving theirs on Friday. In addition to the usual declamations and dialogues, a cantata was presented each evening, the former one being an imaginary trip to Europe. This was a serious test of musical powers, but our young people went into it with a will to master all difficulties, and succeeded so well as to gratify their teachers and surprise parents and friends, who by frequent applause showed their appreciation of the efforts of the children.

The decorations were artistic and patriotic. A large United States flag and a number of smaller ones—gifts from two friends on the last anniversary of Washington's Birthday—graced the wall in rear of the platform. Among the decorations of Friday evening appeared the motto of the graduating class: "We have crossed the bay; the ocean lies before us." Eight well-written essays were read by as many pupils.

No. 1 gave an interesting account of the manners and customs of the Eskimos.

No. 2 wrote on the tendency to imitate, deprecated thoughtless imitation, and showed by illustrations some advantages of individual independence.

No. 3 was in advocacy of a Domestic Department in all schools for girls, to the end that girls shall on leaving school become at once efficient helps to mother and make home attractive for father and brothers.

No. 4 criticised the following of fashion by men and women, especially the men whose obedience to her demands are far greater, much more expensive and dangerous to society than those of women.

No. 5 made an earnest appeal to her associates to reach after high ideals, her subject being "Upward and Onward."

No. 6 was a plea for "Contentment." Not a contentment which is satisfied with past successes, but a contentment which is in harmony with progress.

No. 7 showed the necessity of good home training before school days begin, in order to the attainment of the highest possibilities in the true life of woman.

No. 8 urged the reading and study of the best thoughts of the best writers. Another read an amusing history of the graduating class.

Selections were read from the Saluda Herald, "a live paper published by the Students' Publishing Co., of Seminary square, Saluda, N. C." The only boy of the class delivered an oration on "Little Things," in which he showed that attention, in the days of youth, to what are sometimes supposed to be little things leads to success in later years.

Six pupils, having completed the prescribed course of study, were presented with diplomas by the principal, who accompanied the presentation with some kind words of commendation and encouragement.

Then followed the "Cantata," entitled "The Jolly Farmers."

This composition illustrates the possibility of a high degree of happiness for a farmer and his family who are industrious and love God.

Mr. Happyway, his family and friends were personated by sixteen pupils, who engaged in the various occupations of the farm from early morn till night, the work out of doors and in the kitchen being done with good will and accompanied with cheerful songs.

A particularly attractive feature was the sociable at Mr. Happyway's home. Here neighbors and friends gathered and had a good time, engaging in merry conversation, solos, choruses and instrumental music. Six members of the family, being instrumentalists, entertained the company with some well-rendered popular music. The whole concluded with a grand good-night chorus.

These two entertainments were satisfactory in the highest degree. They were in harmony with the excellent spirit which has prevailed throughout the term. Everybody was enthused. The best things were said of all concerned in the school work of the year which on this occasion was so pleasantly concluded.
